

Drs. Weinstein +
Hearings
SEP -3 1991

Albuminoid... Medical Hypothesis

I did enjoy, and sympathize with, your paper. I had liked to have considered albumin a good candidate for somatic diversity, mainly in light of its function as transport and detoxification of many different ligands.

But where is there evidence of microheterogeneity of the gene products?

This should be addressed using PCR to amplify m-RNA probed with a structured genomic segment.

Sincerely,
Joshua Lederberg